Industrial consortium including Rovsing wins contract from CNES

An industrial consortium under the lead of Telespazio France, Toulouse, and including Rovsing A/S, Skovlunde, has received positive confirmation by CNES, the French national space agency, about the outcome of a competition for a contract on the renewal of launcher tracking station equipment. Rovsing's subcontracted share in this activity includes project management tasks, reliability analysis, and on-site equipment verification. The contract is expected to reach some EUR 700.000, and the major share of the work will be executed in 2018.
